

LOGGING TRANSCONTINENTAL HIGHWAY THROUGH PRESCOTT

(From Sunday's Daily.)

After three days struggle against the elements and one day of fierce battle against flooded arroyos between here and Phoenix, the Ohio "Mud-hen" waded into bright sunshine at Prescott yesterday afternoon bearing Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Wilby and Fred D. Clark, driver, fifty-nine days out from New York City, via San Francisco and San Diego.

Mr. Wilby is special agent of the Office of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., and is now "logging" a route from the California coast to New York City, having just completed a "log" from Gotham to San Francisco by the middle west route.

He is furnishing reports and photographs to Washington, showing not only the condition of roads, but communicating to headquarters the status of good roads movements in each state.

A further object of the tour is to assist in bringing about the early construction of a transcontinental highway from Los Angeles to Kansas City, via Yuma, Phoenix, Prescott, Flagstaff, Holbrook, Adamana, thence over the Arizona border to Gallup, Albuquerque and Santa Fe, New Mexico; thence, over the Raton Pass, following the old Santa Fe trail through to Kansas City.

"I started on this trip," said Mr. Wilby, "with the idea of laying out and logging what I consider the ideal tour of America. If automobilists only knew how to see their own country, we should hear less of the reprehensible slogan, 'See America First.'"

"My wife has accompanied me because we felt that it should be a journey which should take in everything of sight-seeing value and interest to both sexes and be undertaken with the least amount of discomfort and fatigue.

"We travel as ordinary train tourists, without special equipment or dress. So far, we have felt no need for camping outfit or for sacrificing the daily comforts of the ordinary citizen. We have demonstrated that ladies and gentlemen can see the sights of their native land, particularly the wonder spots of Arizona's plateau region to the north, without extraordinary camp equipage.

"Governor Sloan and Territorial Engineer Girard were good enough to discuss with me our plans and I was gratified to learn from these gentlemen, after they had carefully inquired as to the feasibility of the various routes out of California into Arizona, that the road selected by us through Arizona was the one which had the indorsement of the expert minds of this territory.

"The governor regretted the lack of co-ordination as far as the Californians had been concerned. We told him they did not appear fully to realize the importance of the east to west transcontinental highway. However, the governor has strong hopes that the Southwestern Transcontinental Highway convention, to be held with delegates from California, New Mexico and Arizona in Phoenix, next month, will effect a better appreciation of the benefits mutually to be desired from such a highway.

Mr. Wilby regrets he was unable to travel the territorial highway to Prescott from the capital, as he considers this the most important link in the Arizona transcontinental highway of the future.

Mr. Girard is looking after the party by clearing the road north of Prescott to Flagstaff, via Cherry and Camp Verde. The Wilbys were the guests of Tom Norris, president of the Arizona Good Roads association, and Mrs. Norris, during their stay in this city. With A. L. Westgard, Mr. Wilby founded the now famous Touring Club of America, in New York in 1909. He has traveled every auto road in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe, where for many years he lived and worked as correspondent of the New York World and the London Leader.

The party will leave the Chamber of Commerce offices at 10 this morning. They express great hopes for the future of Prescott and say they are especially pleased with the enthusiasm shown for good roads by Mr. Norris, than whom they have yet to see a more active booster.

HONDURAS BREWERY IS FOAMY DREAM

Dick Muhsfeldt Returns From Central America the Hero of Machette Duel With Bloodthirsty Black

(From Tuesday's Daily)

"Prescott is yet the best place after all," so says Dick Muhsfeldt, who has followed the example of the proverbial cat and is moreover mighty glad to get back.

For six years Dick held high office at the Yavapai Club and was ever on hand to come to the rescue of those facing death by thirst in this mountain city of clear water and other means of palatial refreshment.

Last summer Dick devoted the beautiful evenings and balmy days to the perusal of glowing, highly colored pamphlets describing the wonderful possibilities of Honduras. His ambitious disposition was the cause of his undoing and on the 21st of August he bade his tearful friends good bye and started for Honduras with the strict intention of saving the natives of that central country from dying of thirst by opening a first class brewery. The brewery proposition proved to be nothing but a foamy dream and the Yavapai thirst destroyer became foreman over a gang of 84 native workmen who were installing a power line through the jungle of San Pedro Sula, Spanish Honduras, which if judged by the tales of the returned wanderer is quite as bad as it sounds.

While foreman of the construction gang he thoughtlessly requested one of the laborers to quit soldiering and go to work. An ungentelemanly request of that sort was an offense too horrible to pass unnoticed and the insulted black responded by lunging at the energetic foreman with a nice sharp meat cutter, commonly referred to in story books as a machette. Dick dodged the machette and started in to show the would-be assassin how the German soldiers turned the trick in China when he wore the Kaiser's uniform in that grand and bloodless campaign. Help in the form of about 80 of the black's friends came to his assistance and for a few moments the would-be father of a first class Honduras brewery was a bad bet. However the trouble adjusted itself and Dick was promoted by the construction company to the position of over-foreman and the blood thirsty black was immediately made a member of the San Pedro police force. This is a positively true story and Dick has the knife with him to show how terrible the battle raged.

Owing to his industry and energy Dick received the tremendous emolument of 150 pesos per month, which translated into real money means about $75. The company furnished all tools and supplies necessary for constructing the line and Dick furnished a boarder for one of the native families at the rate of $10 per month; which is not high for a berth on the ground of the company's warehouse and rice and beans three times a day.

Although still living and ambitious, Dick shows that the climate of Honduras is not to be compared with that of Prescott and insists that drawing beer from a keg and washing gold from the sands of Granite Creek are the proper methods of earning a good living.

"No sir, Ich bin no nigger and I stay in Prescott yet and always." This is good sentiment and whenever anyone tells you about the glories of somewhere else just remind them that Prescott is the place to live and prosper—and you know it—if you have any doubt it ask the returned would-be brewer.

FINE WEATHER IS ASSURED FOR FAIR WEEK

(Special to the Journal-Miner).

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 30.—Advises received from many points in Arizona indicate that the attendance at this year's fair will exceed by far that of any previous year. Special trains will be run from nearly every town of prominence in Arizona and Ocean Park, San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco on the coast. To entertain the visitors elaborate preparations have been made by the fair commissioners. The daily program at the fair grounds will run from 9 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and then there will be night shows in town. Every department has hundreds of new exhibits and for the racing card already over 200 horses are at the track. The Board of Trade has arranged to supply visitors with accommodations and with the Hotel Adams open there will be ample room. The rain storms of the past three days which ended tonight assures fine weather fair week and has completely done away with the usual dust nuisance.

BRINGS PLACER GOLD

(From Friday's Daily.)

Thomas Shaffroth and H. J. Kinnie arrived in the city yesterday from Humboldt creek, near the old Mexican smelter, with over $265 in placer gold, which they washed out in three weeks time. This amount was found in a space of less than ten feet long at a depth of about four feet, in a side gulch from the main creek bed. They will return today and state that the old workings have been cleverly operated and they secured only a small sum in flour gold. Both believe that unworked ground will be discovered some day in that section which will yield heavily.

trusted have deceived me. When urged for reforms the officials and gentry seized the opportunity to embezzle funds. Thus much of the people's money was taken. They are grudging it yet I did not hear it. The disaster looms ahead, yet I did not see the whole empire was seething and the spirits of our nine deceased emperors were unable to stop the sacrifices of property. All these things are my own fault, but I hereby announce to the world that I swear to reform and with the people and soldiers to carry our constitution."

Several Manchú ministers resigned, and were succeeded by Chinese. The lines around Peking have been tightened but while the higher classes and foreigners fear no trouble others are in a state of nervousness. There is now twenty thousand soldiers at the gates of the city and several places inside bags of sand have been thrown up as fortifications.

The effect of the edict, however, has already been good and the city tonight is somewhat more tranquil.

VALUABLE GEMS LOST OUT OF STOCKING

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 26.—A chamois bag, containing $3500 in gems and $500 in currency was "jiggled out of her stocking while she rode through Golden Gate Park in a taxi," the police was told by Mrs. W. G. Logan of New York. The lost jewels included a twelve-stone diamond brooch and a twenty-six-stone diamond bracelet. The greenbacks were of large denominations.

The police are searching, but they venture the opinion that Mrs. Logan is mistaken and did not put the bag in her stocking at all, but mislaid it. It is almost impossible, they say, to jiggle or jolt things out of a stocking unless the garter gives way.

ing apparatus" entered the mine to recover supposed victims and "First Aid" miners took charge of the pretended victims and resuscitated them. The rest of the day's program included demonstrations with safety lamps of various construction, experiments showing the danger of breaking incandescent lamps in an atmosphere surcharged with coal gas or coal dust and the advantages of various new safety devices.

Tomorrow, at Forbes field, Pittsburgh's baseball park, there will be another demonstration of a coal dust explosion, this time above ground, for the benefit of the general public. The rest of the program includes demonstrations of the equipment and work of the rescue cars, manned by expert rescuers, carefully trained in the use of the oxygen helmets and in the various methods of giving first aid to the victims overcome by gas or injured by falling rocks or broken timber. President Taft will view this part of the interesting program. A grand parade of miners will conclude the demonstration. In view of the fact that during the last ten years thirty thousand miners were killed and seventy-five thousand injured in the mines of the United States the subject of preventing mine explosions is of national importance. The mine operators and intelligent workers fully appreciate the importance of the work of the Bureau of Mines and seem willing to support the efforts of the bureau.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 26.—W. J. Bering, piano player of a resort, was sentenced to two and a half years in Atlanta prison for being engaged in the white slave traffic. He brought a Los Angeles girl to Tucson on the pretext that she would be given a job in a candy store and took her to the resort of Pearl Hall. The Hall woman was fined $1000.
